

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

Driven to DiscoverSM

Sensory Processing Disorders Video (20140291, Dr. Judith Reisman)

Strategies for Sensory Processing Disorders

The From Roots to Wings video presents factual and practical information about sensory processing disorders. Topics include difficulties in motor coordination/planning, self-regulation and sensory defensiveness. Parents share their insight on the impact these difficulties have had on the lives of their children. The major focus of the video is on strategies for addressing these sensory concerns with children shown doing sensory activities which help them to be successful in daily life and to feel good about themselves. Parents and others will gain knowledge about the subtle and often puzzling behaviors of children with sensory processing disorders.

FEATURES AND BENEFITS OF THE FROM ROOTS TO WINGS VIDEO:

- Offers an introduction to practical information about sensory processing disorders
- Presents strategies for addressing sensory concerns
- Suitable for educating parents, teachers, special educators, occupational therapists and others

Single copies of the video on DVD may be purchased from the Center for Allied Health Programs Website.

Researchers

Judith Reisman, PhD, OTR/L

Associate Professor Emeritus, Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation

Technology ID

20140291

Category

Software & IT/Education &
Training

Learn more

